

TreeHugger is the definitive, modern yet green lifestyle filter. It will help you improve your course, yet still maintain your aesthetic.

Vivavi life. style. planet.

« Read previous post | Home | Read next post »

Recycle For Breast Cancer

February 22, 2005 10:01 AM -

If you're like us, then you cringe when people in your office throw old ink and toner cartridges in the trash. Isn't there anything that can be done? Well there is in fact something that you can do, not only at the office, but also at home. Recycle For Breast Cancer is a national non-profit organization that collects used ink and toner cartridges, cell phones, palm pilots and more to help fight breast cancer and to benefit the environment. All of the net proceeds from the recycling program go to a national breast cancer foundation. The program is so easy to participate in and there's no cost to you. So basically, there's really no excuse to not be doing it. You can log on to the Recycle For Breast Cancer Web site and fill out a form to request a pre-paid shipping label for your personal use and you can also request free supplies for the office, including postage paid mailing bags, recycle pails and collection boxes. Not only are you supporting a good cause but you're helping to protect the environment as well. ::Recycle For Breast Cancer [by KD]

« Read previous post | Home | Read next post »

:: Comments

:: Post a comment

But before you do - please note the following:

- a) Imagine you are raising your hand in a crowded room to ask a question or make a comment. Please add value and be respectful.
- b) We are on online magazine, not a store. If you want product info, please contact the company directly. Feel free to share what you find out after!
- c) You can include basic HTML in your comments. If you have a link to something, please be sure to post it this way!

Thanks for your valuable comments! They are a key part of TreeHugger.

Name:

Email Address:

URL: