Don't toss out that old cell phone—if you've recently upgraded, these organizations will gladly accept your old model. —Elizabeth Shinnick

AT&T WIRELESS REUSE AND RECYCLE

In an effort to combat waste, AT&T donates funds from recycling cell phones to Keep America Beautiful, a nonprofit organization that encourages individuals to take greater responsibility for improving their community environments. Bring unwanted wireless equipment to any AT&T retail store; visit the website to find a store near you.

PHONES 4 CHARITY

Refurbished phones are sent to emerging countries and to low-income areas in the United States where there is a need for them for both safety and communication. In three easy steps you can donate yours to charity, or organize a drive and gather 30 or more phones—and the shipping will be free.

RECYCLE FOR BREAST CANCER

This ongoing fundraising program helps the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation raise funds quickly and easily. Phones are collected and recycled so they don't end up in landfills. (The program also accepts toner cartridges and PDAs.) RFBC will send you a prepaid shipping label so there is no cost to you.

TODAY'S CHICAGO WOMAN FOUNDATION (TCWF)

TCWF provides money to underfunded organizations that focus on victims of domestic violence. In its new fundraising program, Donate a Phone, donors drop off or mail in their unwanted cells. TCWF sends them to the Wireless Foundation, which then gives TCWF a check for each one that is donated.

VERIZON WIRELESS HOPELINE PROGRAM

Hopeline uses wireless services and equipment to assist victims in domestic violence situations. Phones are recycled, refurbished, and/or sold. With the resulting funds, Verizon Wireless will purchase wireless phones and donate airtime to victims of domestic violence through human services and law enforcement agencies. Mail donations to the address listed below, or bring your phone to any Verizon Wireless retail store nationwide.
